

March 31, 2009: Today on NBC:

Executive Chef Paul Lynch of FireLake restaurant in downtown Minneapolis was featured this morning on NBC's Today Show. Today correspondent Tiki Barber joined Chef Paul on an ice-fishing trip for walleye, Minnesota's official state fish and one of Chef's Paul's most popular dishes on his menu drawn from America's heartland. Warmed by Chef Paul's famous breakfast sliders and thermoses of his homemade hot chocolate, Chef Paul took the host and crew to a typical ice-house village, a virtual winter city on the frozen lake where locals gather to tailgate and socialize during this very cold winter tradition. The segment concluded on the ice with Tiki partaking in Chef's Paul signature preparation of the state fish: Corn Crusted Walleye.
